PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Plans have been completed for our upcoming Florida Library Association annual program. The title of the program is Hypertext, What's It All About. We have two outstanding presenters, Ann Bevilacqua and Karen Smith Catlin, who have extensive experience in the design and use of Hypertext. Ann is currently in private practice developing interactive instructional software for academic libraries. Prior to this, she was Librarian for Instructional Services at New York University where she designed and produced The Research Assistant, an interactive library instruction package using HyperCard.

Karen Smith Catlin is presently Senior Software Engineer, Research, Institute for Research in Information and Scholarship at Brown University. She was a major contributor in the development of Intermedia, a hypertext system with current applications in English literature and plant cell biology.

I am also pleased to announce that our chapter has again received special funding from ACRL. This funding will help offset some of the cost of providing a distinctive program to be presented this coming fall. Tentatively titled "Capturing Creativity and Innovation for Library Service in the '90's", the program will deal with creative and innovative means to approaching service problems in our libraries. The idea for the program and the proposal were put together primarily by Vice President/President-Elect Rich Bennett and board members Jamie Hastreiter and Derrie Roark. The program will be presented in the Orlando or Tampa area in November, 1990.

We continue to look for ways to strengthen our liaison system and to recognize the excellent work being done by our 43 liaisons operating in libraries throughout the state. For the FLA conference we will be sending to each liaison a ribbon which may be attached to their name tags as a means of identifying them. Please look for these ribbons and let these folks know that you appreciate their work.

Each ACRL Chapter recently received a memorandum from our national president, Bill Moffett. Bill has selected Goal III of the ACRL strategic plan as a theme which he wishes to emphasize. Goal III calls on us to promote and speak for the interests of academic and research librarianship among non-library professionals and associations, and to develop working relationships with them. To this end, Bill urges members to make special effort to become involved in the upcoming White House Conference and related State Conferences. He further advocates that we do all we can to see that delegates with strong academic interests -- librarians, professors, supportive alumni and administrators are elected to conferences.

Our feature article in this issue of the Newsletter discusses the process for selecting our state delegates. Please study these procedures and become involved. Furthermore, do all that you can to promote the election of delegates who will support academic library interests. It is to your benefit as well as the benefit of the state and the nation to strengthen academic librarianship.

COME JOIN US!

FROM THE EDITOR

Producing the Florida ACRL Chapter Newsletter, designed to update Florida academic librarians on statewide activities, is a group effort.

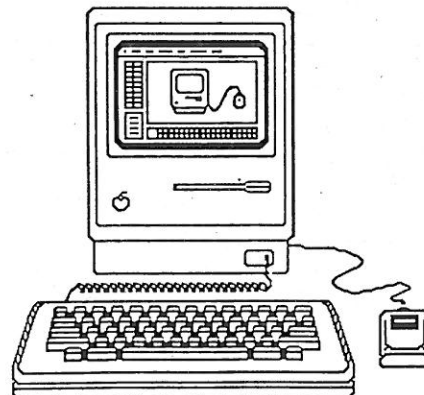

Thanks goes to the hard work provided by the regional reporters (listed below), liaisons at each institution, and librarians who supply news to their regional reporter. Special thanks to Pat Crabb and David Doerrer at UWF for their continued assistance with editing, graphics, laser printers, dBASE IV, and PFS: First Publisher.

I appreciate all your assistance. With your help the Newsletter continues to serve its purpose.

FLORIDA GOVERNOR'S CONFERENCE

Lydia Acosta

The second Florida Governor's Conference on Library and Information Services will be held in Tallahassee on December 3-5, 1990. Conference objectives are to: 1) identify the effectiveness of present library services in meeting the needs of all Florida citizens; 2) determine what library services must be developed to meet future needs in a changing world; 3) develop an appropriate plan of action to encourage community awareness and support for library services; 4) clarify appropriate responsibilities to be assumed at the local, state, and national levels in support of library services; 5) provide an opportunity for citizen participation in the second White House Conference on Library and Information Services (WHCLIS II).

Regional Activities

The state has been divided into five regions in order to most effectively obtain grassroots input from users and non-users. Regional chairpersons are: REGION I George Vickery (904) 785-3457; REGION II Ann Williams (904) 371-2994; REGION III Bob Martin (813) 622-8252; REGION IV Bill Miller (305) 554-2461; and REGION V Tom Reitz (407) 323-1450. Plans for regional activities are now underway which include user surveys, workshops, town meetings, etc. A slide program, showcasing the progress and activities of Florida libraries, was developed as a tool to increase community awareness and support for libraries throughout Florida. You may contact your regional chair to obtain a copy of this program.

Nomination of Delegates

The selection of delegates to attend the Florida Governor's Conference is of major importance. These delegates will act for the people of Florida and for the library and information services field in examining needs; identifying local, state, and national issues; and proposing recommendations for the White House conference as well as action to be taken within Florida. Delegates to WHCLIS II, scheduled for July, 1991, will be nominated from the participants at the Florida Governor's Conference and appointed by the Governor of Florida. One hundred (100) delegates and twenty-eight (28) alternates must be selected for the State Conference. Twenty-five (25) members will be elected from each of the following categories: citizens, library professionals, library-support persons, and local/state/federal officials.

To have a pool of nominees large enough to achieve the broad representation required by WHCLIS II, many sources will be tapped for nominations. The Delegate and Participant Selection Committee, chaired by John D. Hales, Jr., will secure nominations from 1) participants in the five regions holding pre-conference activities to secure grassroots public input; 2) all types of civic and service groups and governmental, labor, and library professional organizations; 3) individuals; and 4) self-nominations. All nominations must be submitted before July 1 on the official form and be accompanied by a biographical sketch. Members of the Florida Library Association will be receiving a nomination form in a future issue of FLASH. Forms will also be available in your local library and can be obtained through your regional chair or by contacting Lydia Acosta (813) 253-6231, conference coordinator Jo Ann Kearney at (904) 487-2651, or Danny Hales at (904) 362-2317.

Criteria for Delegate Selection

Once all nominations have been received, the Delegate and Participant Selection Committee will begin its work by utilizing criteria approved by the Governor's Conference Planning Committee. The following criteria will be used for selection of delegates, alternates, and other participants: representation from all five regions which were established by the Planning Committee; representation from all nineteen congressional districts; representation of minority, handicapped, institutionalized, and different age groups, private/public sectors, urban/rural sections, various socio-economic backgrounds, teachers, parents, students, and non-users; and representation of certain elected/appointed officials and official observers as may be necessary.

Academic Librarians Involvement

Many of our academic library colleagues have taken an active leadership role in support of this important effort. Governor Martinez appointed Charles Miller, FSU, Celia Suarez, MDCC, and Tom Reitz, Seminole CC to serve on the Planning Committee which is chaired by Lydia Acosta of the University of Tampa. Many others are serving on various subcommittees. YOUR contribution is very important! Get involved today by putting your special skills, experience, and knowledge to work for Florida libraries.

News from the Field: Acquisitions, Programs, Services

Valencia and University of Central Florida libraries have recently installed six electronic reference workstations. The workstations provide access to the following CD-ROM databases: Periodical Abstracts, Newspaper Abstracts, Dissertation Abstracts, and ABI/INFORM. The Technical Services Department served as a test site for Baker and Taylor's new Acquire 1.4 and BIP+ interface. Librarians from Valencia Community College and the University of Central Florida have been provided release time to design a library program that will enable VCC students transferring to UCF to succeed in using the sources and services at the UCF library. The East Campus LRC has also recently received college staff and development funds to develop a library skills course designed to help students acquire informational literacy skills. In December 1989, the Orlando Sentinel matched $50,000 raised by the Valencia Foundation to create a $100,000 endowment to purchase books for the college.

Buildings

Ground breaking ceremonies were held March 28, 1990 for a new facility to house the LRC. The anticipated completion date is Fall, 1992.

ASSOCIATIONS & NETWORKS

ACRL Legislative Committee Network

The ACRL Legislative Committee met at Midwinter in Chicago to finalize plans for a Legislative Network modeled after the one used by the League of Women Voters. A pilot test project has been announced that would take three months and include Wisconsin, New York, Illinois, and California --states which already have active networks. The current ACRL Legislative Committee will be restructured to include national liaisons to state ACRL Chapters. Each state Chapter will, in turn, appoint a state liaison to the national network to serve as the state contact to the national network. This representative will be called upon to distribute information and invoke grassroots support for national academic library issues.

Florida Health Sciences Library Association

The annual meeting of the Florida Health Sciences Library Association is April 26-27 in Palm Beach, Florida at the Brazilian Court Hotel. Theme of the meeting is "New Technologies in Paradise." CE courses accompanying this theme are a seminar in "The Technology: Optical Storage and Retrieval", and CE 129 Hospital Library Management. Cost for the CE courses is $50.00 each and registration fee is $50.00. For additional information contact: Linda O'Callaghan at (407) 650-6315.

Central Florida Library Consortium

The Central Florida Library Consortium is now compiling a union serials list of the holdings of academic, public, and special libraries in the region. An estimated 30,000 local data records for serials will appear in the list which will be available in printed and online formats using the union list and group access capabilities of SOLINET and OCLC. Institutions which have previously not been members of SOLINET/OCLC are participating at a lower cost as group users through the consortium. Profiling for additional participants remains open. For more information about regional multi-type library resource sharing efforts contact John Dooley, Executive Director, Central Florida Library Consortium c/o Seminole Community College, 100 Weldon Boulevard, Sanford, FL 32773-6199 (407) 323-1450 ext. 304 SUNCOM 353-1304.

Pennsylvania Libraries Salary Survey

The Pennsylvania Library Association's College and Research Library Division has conducted a salary survey of academic libraries of the Pennsylvania academic libraries for the past two years. The survey has made available comparative, statewide salary data which has been instrumental in building a case for improved compensation at a number of Pennsylvania academic libraries. The 1989 Salary Survey is now being compiled and will soon be available for $5.00 plus $2.00 for postage and handling. Copies of the 1988 survey are also available for the same price. Forward requests for either or both surveys along with payment to: Academic Library Salary Survey, Pennsylvania Library Association, 3107 North Front Street, Harrisburg, PA 17110.

American Society for Information Science (ASIS)

The mid-year meeting of The American Society for Information Science features informal yet intense explorations on focused topics. The 1990 conference will be held at the Bahia Mar Hotel in Fort Lauderdale, Florida, May 13-19. "Microcomputing in the 1990's: Unlocking the Power" is designed to help participants maximize their information resources. In addition to 15 special interest group sponsored sessions and 20 contributed papers on research in progress, there will be demonstrations involving newly available services. For additional information and registration call (202) 412-1000 or fax to (202) 462-7494.

NATIONAL ACRL CANDIDATES

Anne K. Beaubien, University of Michigan Library and Maxine H. Reneker, Stanford University Libraries are candidates for the National ACRL Vice-President/President-Elect. Upon request, they each responded to the following question posed by the Washington State ACRL Chapter:

How can librarians who are unable to travel to national meetings have a more meaningful involvement in ACRL?

Anne Beaubien

Chapters are especially important for ACRL members who are unable to attend national meetings, because they provide opportunities on the state level for librarians to learn and improve themselves. I believe that it is by attending programs and working together with other librarians that individuals grow professionally and develop an informal network of colleagues. There are several ways librarians can become more involved.

1. Participate in continuing education or other programs sponsored locally by the ACRL Chapter. These Chapter Programs offer opportunities for members to have access to current information and intellectual stimulation. To help facilitate this, ACRL provides speakers, often without cost to Chapters, and reviews grant proposals submitted by Chapters.
2. Serve on Chapter committees. Working together with colleagues is always a good way to get to know them and become part of an informal state network which can be tapped to help solve problems at work.
3. Become part of the Legislative Network currently being developed by the ACRL Legislation Committee.
4. Get involved with the grass roots efforts in the state over the next 12 months to figure out what the political process is to become a delegate to the White House Conference in 1991. It is important that we have academic librarians as delegates since we were so under represented at the last WHC. If librarians are unable to easily travel, they can help create an opportunity for a colleague.
5. Minimum salaries and pay equity issues are most effectively worked on at the state level. Librarians could get involved locally to work on this issue, important to retaining librarians and to attracting good people to the profession.

Maxine Reneker

My response will be addressed to the two facets of meaningful involvement: what ACRL can do for the individual librarian, and what the individual can contribute to the profession through ACRL activities. ACRL can involve us in meaningful ways through the continuing education programs. ACRL maintains a list of speakers who are available to make presentations at state and regional conferences. Its staff and its President, are also available to come to individual chapters to speak.

ACRL's publication program is broad: College and Research Libraries, College and Research Libraries News, Books for College Libraries, and CLIP Notes are available to each of us. The expertise of ACRL staff are on call to members to assist us in answering questions and concerns.

From the perspective of what involvement we can have as academic librarians in ACRL without attending conferences, I will mention several possibilities. As professionals, we need a forum to publish the results of our individual library programming and to contribute to the professional development of others by articles. Chapter newsletters, section newsletters, and College and Research Libraries News are all vehicles for this kind of contribution.

We also need publications to disseminate the results of more substantial kinds of research. College and Research Libraries is clearly one of the most important and widely read publications of this type in our field, therefore serving us well as we seek to share these results with others in our profession.

We can make suggestions for nominees to receive the awards given in recognition for a variety of achievements. This can broaden the base of honorees beyond those who often attend conferences. We can include ourselves in the list of speakers, or work with ACRL to develop continuing education courses in areas of our expertise.

We can work individually, and at local levels to recruit into our profession qualified individuals with particular skills and academic training, or members of various ethnic and racial minorities. We can work at the local level to address the many faceted issues of information literacy and to establish close professional associations with interests similar to our own. Our activity in these areas will directly support the initiative of two recent ACRL presidents.
